

Capital Of World Is Shifted To U.S. For Historic Meet

Most Noted Leaders of World Throng Washington for Opening on Saturday

BURIAL A PEACE CHALLENGE

Chairman at Organization
Meeting in D. A. R. Hall

Washington — America's capital Thursday became the capital of the world.

With the arrival of Arthur Balfour and other British delegates, Washington is ready for one of the greatest peace parleys in history.

On the eve of the conference, interest centers on whether the United States, as an evidence of its good faith, will offer to suspend naval construction during the session here.

All the delegates are waiting eagerly for America to take the lead, either by proposing suspension of construction during the conference, or by submitting a definite program for arms limitation.

Ceremonies in honor of America's unknown dead are giving a most appropriate setting to the opening of the great peace conference. The unknown's body seems to send forth a challenge to the statesmen of the world that war must not be again.

Many Visitors Here

Washington is crowded with visitors from all over the world. Japanese, Chinese, French, Italian, British, Portuguese, Indians, mingle with the crowds on the streets, some wearing native costumes, with military representatives bedecked in flashy uniforms spotted with medals.

All over the city are flags of all the principal nations at the conference. Hotels are crowded with rates soaring daily.

The various delegations were holding preliminary conferences, but carefully guarding the cards which they will put on the conference table.

Continental Memorial Hall in the D. A. R. building is ready for the opening Saturday. In the center of the big hall is a big horseshoe table similar to the historic one at Versailles.

The principal delegates will sit around the table, with advisors back of them.

On three sides, will be seated about 300 representatives of the press. Up in the galleries will be members of congress, the supreme court and diplomatic representatives.

Keenest Men in World

The delegates, representing the keenest brains of America, Europe, and the East will assemble in Continental Hall at 10:30 a. m. Saturday. After greetings from President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes and a reply by Premier Briand the conference expects to proceed to organization. Hughes probably will be permanent chairman.

The second open session is expected Monday or Tuesday, when perhaps the nation can gain an insight into what the conference really intends as to policy and procedure.

Some of these conference difficulties are apparent. If the Japanese military party gets the upper hand, the Japanese delegates here will find their hands tied and the conference blasted. And settlement of the Far Eastern problems is a prerequisite to success. If the tangle over Manchuria, Shantung, Yap and so on cannot be solved then arms limitation will fail.

Wilson Will Risk Health To Honor Dead

Washington — Woodrow Wilson is determined to risk his health in order to pay tribute to America's unknown soldier tomorrow.

It will be the former president's first appearance at an official function since he attended the inaugural ceremonies for President Harding.

SOVIET REPUBLIC IS PROCLAIMED IN MONTENEGRO

Hand of Lenine is Seen in Move Following Revolt
from Jugo Slavia Union

By United Press Leased Wire
Belgrade — A soviet republic has been proclaimed in Montenegro.

This movement was the outgrowth of the Montenegrin revolt against absorption in the kingdom of Jugo Slavia.

The proclamation, according to a dispatch from Durazzo, was issued by Vukachin Markovitch, who placed himself at the head of 1,500 insurgents.

Markovitch declared in his statement to the people that, Lenine sent his salutations.

The obviously Slavic character of the leader and his introduction of Lenine into his proclamation was accepted here as evidence of the possible influence of the Russian government in the Montenegrin affairs.

Wisp of Bouquet Laid on Casket by Mother Was for Son She Knew Was Hers

By Herbert Walker
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington — Shivering a bit beneath a thin shawl, she had waited long before the capitol. She was old and gray and bent. Her clothes showed she had seen better days. But her face wore a sort of sad radiance.

For she was an unknown woman, come in from a small town quite distant, that she might meet her boy, back after weary months from France.

It was her boy who lay there in the rotunda—the unknown soldier back from France, honored and sung by the nation, paid a homage greater than the dreams of kings.

She typified a score of mothers who were here Thursday to honor the unknown soldier, each believing it was "her boy."

She fumbled a little package as she waited—just a wisp of a bouquet of white fall flowers which she wished to mingle with the stately wreaths and pretentious bouquets from richer folks. It had cost her much to make the trip here; and—well, she didn't have her boy to help at home, and his daddy had died since the war. So she could spend only a few pennies for that wisp of flowers.

But she was going to lay before the bier something more—a mother's heart and a mother's pride in her boy.

"They say he's an unknown soldier," she told another woman in the waiting line. "He's not unknown; I'm sure he's my boy. And I'm so proud. Just think, the whole country has a part in his funeral."

She shed no tears, she realized that an enemy had slain her boy out there in No Man's Land, and that he was resting in a grave with a marker "unknown."

"I had prayed and prayed for him," she said. "I knew he couldn't come home, because they didn't know who he was. But a miracle has happened, and he's back."

The unknown mother strained her eyes for the signal that would admit her and the other visitors to the capitol. At last, the line moves forward. She could tarry beside the casket but a moment, but she asked the guards to be sure that her wisp of flowers went to rest with her boy.

Under the dome of the capitol—a spot reserved, only for America's greatest—the body will lie in state until Friday morning.

When the Wednesday night, the Admiral Dewey, the Olympia, which brought it from France, Friday the nation will observe Armistice day by according highest honors to the unknown.

TOBACCO FIRMS REPLY TO MORGAN

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee — The eleven tobacco companies sued recently by Attorney General Morgan who alleged they conspired to fix tobacco prices, Wednesday filed a denunciation to the complaint.

The tobaccoists, through Attorney G. B. Ballinger state "that the court has no jurisdiction on the persons of the defendants and no jurisdiction on the subject of the suit action."

The answer alleges that the several causes of action mentioned in Morgan's complaint are improperly united and that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to sustain the charge.

HOLD FOUR FOR MURDER OF NIGHT WATCHMAN

By United Press Leased Wire
Superior — Three men were arrested in Ashland Wednesday and a fourth taken here, believed to be members of the gang of five who shot and killed Anthony Gzanski, night watchman at the Twenty Smith wholesale house Oct. 31.

The tip came when a salesman claims to have overheard a conversation in a soft drink parlor at Saxon, Wis., in which at least two of those arrested at Ashland are alleged to have boasted of "doing a job" at Superior.

UPHOLDS STONE IN BEER PERMIT RULE

Milwaukee — Prohibition commission-er Roy A. Haynes, in response to a telegram sent to the internal revenue department by Dr. J. J. Zellman, Milwaukee, upheld the ruling of limiting physicians to 100 prescriptions blanks every 30 days, made by James A. Stone, Wisconsin prohibition director, it was learned Thursday.

Milwaukee doctors have contended the government has no right to limit the number of prescriptions they may write for any article used as medicine. It has been their contention that the regulations limiting prescriptions would not stand a court test.

TAX BILL FINALLY IS SENT TO CONFERENCE

Washington — The amended tax bill was sent to conference by the house Thursday after a bitter fight had been staged by "insurgent" western Republicans and Democrats to force an immediate vote on the senate fifty per cent surtax amendment.

A motion by Representative Garrett, Democratic leader, to agree to the amendment, was voted down 200 to 124.

ULSTER WILL WAIT ONE DAY FOR BIG MEET

Meeting With British Representatives Scheduled Thursday is Postponed

MAY REJECT COMPROMISE

Premier Craig Declares None of Ulster's Rights Will Be Surrendered

By United Press Leased Wire
London — Premier Lloyd George succeeded in postponing a showdown on the Irish question Thursday when he induced the Ulster cabinet to put off its meeting with British government representatives until Friday.

The postponement was announced after Lloyd George, conferring with advisers in Downing street, sent a letter to the Ulsterites gathered at the Hotel Savoy asking that the meeting be deferred.

Just before today's joint conference was called off Sir James Craig, premier of Ulster issued a statement declaring that none of Ulster's rights would be surrendered. This was interpreted as a flat refusal to consider acceptance of the compromise proposal which provided for a united Ireland.

Addressing commons Thursday afternoon, Lloyd George expressed the "gravest concern" over breaches of the Irish truce but declared he was "satisfied the Sinn Fein leaders are doing their utmost" to observe it.

EUROPE PAYS ITS HOMAGE TO UNKNOWN DEAD

France and Great Britain Representatives Place Flowers on Soldier Casket

Washington — Homage unexcelled by that ever accorded an American hero was paid to the unknown soldier in the rotunda of the capitol Thursday, where the body lies in state.

Before the capitol opened a long line of people were waiting outside. Within a few hours several thousand scores of persons tossed flowers on the casket. At the corners of the catafalque stood four silent sentinels, comrades of the unknown hero.

Wreaths from King George of England and Prime Minister Lloyd George also were placed at the catafalque.

The first ceremony of the day was held by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, composed entirely of overseas men. After the burial ritual of the organization was read Colonel Robert C. Woodside, commander, conferred the rank of honorary aide de camp, medal of honor, section, upon the casket of the unknown soldier.

Although not on the program, Premier Briand of France appeared with his staff. Advancing to the catafalque with bowed head he placed a wreath of pink chrysanthemums, tied with the tri-colors of France, against the bier.

Great Britain's tribute to America's unknown soldier came from one of the most impressive of the day. At noon, the British delegation headed by Admiral Beatty, the hero of Jutland, Sir Arthur Balfour and Ambassador Geddes marched into the rotunda.

As the distinguished British officials halted near the catafalque, an officer of the guard clad in a red coat and a high fur shawl, stepped forward bearing a great wreath of flowers and laid it upon the bier. Following him came a kilt clad Scot with a cross of the stars and stripes and the union jack. A sturdy son of New Foundland brought Canada's tribute to the hero of her neighboring republic and a white turbaned Hindu bore the offering of India.

QUIZ "BLUEBEARD" ON DISAPPEARANCE OF SECOND FIANCE

Landru Appears to Weaken Under Testimony Given by Many Witnesses

By United Press Leased Wire
Versailles, France — Disappearance of the second of the 253 fiancées of Henri "Bluebeard" Landru was taken up in his murder trial Thursday.

After the last testimony had been heard in the case of Madame Cuchet the first of Landru's alleged victims five witnesses were summoned by Judge Gilbert to present their evidence regarding the mystery of Madame LaBordelaine, a handsome widow.

According to the witnesses, the widow announced her engagement to Landru a few days after she met him, and immediately took up her residence with him in the villa at Vernouillet which is alleged to have been purchased by Madame Cuchet.

The defendant air which "Bluebeard" Landru had borne through the first three sessions of his trial for the alleged murder of ten women and a boy was missing when the court ceased.

Relation by a witness of a dream in which Madame Cuchet, the first of the 253 fiancées, appeared with her throat slashed made a deep impression upon him.

Some Shorts Close

A dozen or more Appleton stores will close between the hours of 10 A. M. and 1 P. M. Friday Nov. 11, so that their employees may attend the Armistice day program which will be held at the Lawrence campus at 10:15.

FIND FARMER HANGING DEAD IN HIS BARN

By United Press Leased Wire
Lodi, Wis. — Albert Schields, 55, farmer, living at Holcombe, near here, was found dead hanging from a rafter in his barn here Thursday. He had helped his son do the chores this morning and then disappeared. He had been in ill health for some time.

FEAR CONTROL BY G. O. P. MAY BE TAKEN AWAY

Election Results Show Body Politico as Restless as It Was a Year Ago

Next Six Months Will Tell Which Way 1922 Congressional Elections Go

By David Lawrence
Copyright, 1921, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington. — Thoughts of the armament conference were momentarily interrupted in the national capital to canvass the meaning of the various elections. Most of the contests were local but the general trend of Democratic success has not only pleased the party but has given the majority party cause for slight uneasiness about the congressional campaign, which will develop within the next few months.

It is always difficult to analyze election results in isolated sections. The Republican leaders professed to see little significance in what occurred Tuesday. The Democrats were overjoyed, pointing out that the Republican claim of great gains in Virginia had failed to materialize and that Democratic mayors had been elected for the first time in many years in both Syracuse and Albany, hitherto staunch Republican strongholds. The fact that New York City reelected its Democratic mayor by an overwhelming majority prompted the Democrats here to point out that the tide which swept New York City for Harding had started in an opposite direction.

Watching New Jersey

Nationally speaking, the gains made by the "wets" on the prohibition issue did not pass unnoticed here where Congress is getting ready to act upon the anti-beer bill. The New Jersey Democrats have apparently made big gains in the legislature after a most humiliating defeat last year. This has an importance, however, beyond the wet question for a United States senator to be elected there next November. President Harding has sensed the New Jersey political situation and has right along tried to do all he could to help Mr. Frelinghuysen's prestige there.

From an international viewpoint, a change in the political character of Congress would be of great importance for it was in the middle of Mr. Wilson's second term that he lost control of the senate. The consensus of opinion seems to be that the elections of this week will have a decided effect upon Republican plans. Heretofore with such a large majority, there has been little worry about the political future. The disquiet has been to assume that position has been to assume that Republican seats could still be held and control retained. Until the elections of this week such an assumption was generally accepted by Democrats as quite likely. They did not dream of overturning the Republican hold on congress but the results in the elections have spurred them on and brought out confident predictions that the complexion of congress will change next year.

Congress on Trial

The Republican leaders know therefore that the next six months will tell the tale—that President Harding's armament conference from which it is hoped will come a reduced tax burden must succeed and that the people must feel satisfied with the way congress has acted on the tariff as well as kindred matters before they will vote to return the present party. Some disinterested observers believe the elections of the week convey one's one meaning—namely a continued tendency on the part of the people to vote against the incumbent party. The feeling against the party in power in 1920 was intense. Dissatisfaction with what the Republic means therefore, have a particular reference to the conduct of the Democrats to do any better. The protest vote is still all-powerful. The prestige of neither party is probably any higher but the restlessness of the body politic is just as pronounced as it was a year ago.

HELP RED CROSS. HARDING PLEADS

Washington — President Harding Thursday issued a statement to the American people calling upon them to support as liberally as possible the American Red Cross roll call which opens throughout the nation Friday.

"The call of the American Red Cross is the call of country and humanity and I earnestly urge my fellow citizens to make that response which satisfies the promptings of a generous people," President Harding said.

EMERGENCY TARIFF BILL TO CONTINUE IN EFFECT

Washington — The house Thursday voted acceptance of the senate's amendment on the extension of the Forney emergency tariff bill. This was the last step necessary to extend the emergency measures until the permanent one can be enacted and put into effect.

FIRST "MEDICINE" BEER IS BOTTLED

Milwaukee — Once famous the world over for "the beer that made Milwaukee famous," Milwaukee came to its own again here Thursday when the first bottle of real "medicinal" beer was bottled.

Early Thursday at the Schlitz brewery, one of the first in the United States to obtain a permit to manufacture medicinal beer, the first bottle was filled, sealed and labeled and not long after the first case of beer under the new regulations was ready for the market.

When the lid of the first case had been nailed down with the stamps and labels affixed as provided by law, the brewery officers announced that they "are now ready to supply every druggist whose application is approved by the director."

POSTPONE ROTARY PLAY TO EVENING OF DEC. 1

Due to the fact that Flete O'Hara will be at the Appleton theater on the evening of Nov. 20, the drama, "The Tomorrow's" which is being produced by the Rotary club for the benefit of the Boy Scouts will be postponed to Thursday evening, Dec. 1. The demand for tickets will probably necessitate two performances. Arrangements have been made to secure Lawrence Memorial chapel for Dec. 1.

U. S. Could Afford To Pay Ten Billion To Guarantee World Peace For All Time

WANT CITY TO BE SILENT TO HONOR MEMORY OF DEAD

Every person in Appleton has been invited by the Oney Johnston post of the American Legion to participate in the services in observance of Armistice day in front of Lawrence Memorial chapel at 10:20 Friday morning. Final arrangements for the program were made on Thursday.

The Lawrence legion, Oney Johnston and Lawrence posts will congregate at Elk club and will fall in behind the military band to march to the chapel at 10:20. Fraternal organizations, labor unions and schools will march from their headquarters at about the same hour.

The program at the chapel will be opened with the singing of "America" by the crowd. Resolutions urging action toward abolition of war, to be sent to the disarmament conference will be read and adopted, followed by the reading of President Harding's armistice day address by Dr. D. O. Kinsman. Two minutes of silence will be observed at the conclusion of the address after which a firing squad will fire a volley, buglers will sound taps and the program will be concluded with the singing of "Star Spangled Banner." Mayor J. A. Hawes will preside.

President Harding's address will be read here at the same that it is being delivered by the president at Arlington cemetery at ceremonies in connection with the burial of an unknown and unidentified soldier.

Churches and factories have agreed to start sounding their bells and whistles at about two minutes before 11 o'clock and will stop promptly on the hour which is to be followed by two minutes of absolute silence. Manufacturers have been asked to shut down their engines, street cars to stop where they are, pedestrians to halt in their tracks, store and office employees to quit working and every person maintain absolute silence for two minutes while they meditate on the sacrifice of the man who is being buried in Arlington and on the sacrifice made by the hundreds of thousands of others who left their homes at the call to arms.

This period of silence will be observed all over the United States at precisely the same hour. It is the most significant tribute ever paid in this country.

A request has been made that all flags in the city be lowered to halfmast all day on Friday.

Program Of Red Cross Impossible To Fulfill Without Aid Of People

The first obligation of the Outagamie County chapter of Red Cross, which begins its 1921-22 campaign on Friday is assistance to former service men and the organization is placing great stress on that phase of its work. Demand for service from every side. Cross is increasing from every side. Officers say, it is to meet this increasing demand for service that the organization is making a strenuous effort to increase Red Cross membership over last year.

Roll call means every person in Outagamie county a member so that if the roll of the county is called every resident can say he is a member of the Red Cross. If every person would join the organization it would be in a position to do at least most of the things that it seems most to be doing.

The demand for Red Cross public health nursing is increasing. Officers report. There is also an increasing demand on the part of county women for further health instruction in food classes, home nursing and nutrition. Without money the Red Cross cannot meet that demand.

Dozens of Outagamie county children are sorely in need of medical attention which they will never receive unless the Red Cross can provide it because the parents are so unfortunately situated that large expenditures for medical care is impossible. In addition there is always a demand for emergency assistance of all kinds, including assistance to civilian families.

FARMERS TO PLACE OWN STOCK ON MART

Chicago — Farmers Thursday planned to market their own livestock on a cooperative basis.

Every livestock producing section was represented in a conference which met here Thursday at the call of the American Farm Bureau federation to ratify a cooperative marketing plan drawn up by the federation's committee of fifteen.

According to J. R. Howard, president of the federation the committee report included:

Provisions to give the farmer something to say about the distribution of his stock.

Plans for a farmer owned and controlled livestock commission at the stockyards.

Methods for orderly marketing of livestock as to prevent glut on the market and consequent sharp declines in prices.

Details of the plan provide for organization of farmers in various sections of the country into associations for handling, selling, and marketing livestock for its members and others. Farmers that actually produce the livestock would also be formed into cooperative societies.

The associations would have a board of directors with the power to borrow money. Fee for each member would be $50 a year.

Who Will Win Prize?

The United States has the best position. She extended the armistice and has the first move. More than that, her traditional policy has been to rely upon her pacifist intentions rather than upon fleets and armies. In the present instance, she has a mighty army in the debts due her.

Suppose the United States were to step forward and say: We are willing to pay ten billions for the progress of disarmament. The world began at once to pay the sum, and the obligation to pay the sum, and the obligation to pay it is made the basis for indemnity which, however just, threaten the annuity of Europe for generations, and thus furnish an excuse for military and naval expenditures scarcely less burdensome than the indemnities.

Would the American people support such a proposition? Why not? They are sentimental; they spend over thirty millions to end war by means of war; would they not spend ten billions to end war by peaceful means? And besides the American people are practical.

Has this nation any better offer to make? Is any other nation able to make so large a contribution towards the success of the conference?

ORGANIZE COUNTY TO PUT OVER RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Campaign Chairmen Have Been Named in All the County Districts

Hugh G. Corbett, chairman of the annual Red Cross roll call for Outagamie county, has completed a tour of the county in which he organized the campaign machine which will conduct the drive for members to open Friday.

At each place visited, Mr. Corbett explained the purpose of the roll call this year and showed how it is extremely necessary that the good work the Red Cross is doing be continued. Wherever possible he appointed local leaders to direct the campaign in their own communities.

Those named thus far are Miss Lucille Knox, Osborn; Dr. Wesley L. Bayden, Seymour; Mrs. John Morgan, Oneida; Mrs. J. J. Laird, Black Creek; Mrs. L. F. Hahn, Nichols; John Jones, Leeman; Mrs. William Gough, Sugarbush; Miss Elizabeth Bodah, Liberty; Fred N. Torrey, Hortonville; Miss Alice Cornelius, teacher of an Indian mission school in Oneida.

Because Friday is Armistice day and many country people will visit in neighboring cities, it is probable that the drive will get well under way in outlying districts on the opening day. The plan is for a speedy inspection.

Friday evening, but would attempt to deliver an address fitting to the occasion although he was not prepared.

"Since the beginning of time people of all nations have been burdened by taxes which were used by their countries either in paying for past wars or in preparing for future wars. The world now has reached such a period of development in science and invention that implements of war have been made which will annihilate hundreds and even thousands at one shot. Only the other day, United States army officers experimented with a large airship which carried a bomb that contained a deadly gas, a few drops of which dropped on soldiers below would cause instant death," the judge said.

"It is my hope that the coming disarmament conference will come to a head and that the peoples of the world shall say: 'There shall be no more wars.' With due respect to the heads of our government. Some thing must break. Some thing must be done, to guarantee the prosperity of America."

"It has been estimated that of every dollar received by the government, 93 cents is spent either paying past war debts or in preparing for future wars. With the elimination of these expenditures, the government could perform wonderful things."

"The only way that disarmament and peace can ever come about is by forming a world court backed by sufficient force to give peace and prosperity to the world."

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

MAYOR CALLS ON CITY TO OBSERVE HOMECOMING DAY

Wants Merchants to Decorate Stores and People at Large to Attend Games

Official recognition of the second annual homecoming of Lawrence college was taken on Thursday when Mayor J. A. Hawes issued a proclamation calling on Appleton merchants to decorate their places of business in the colors of Lawrence and urging all Appleton citizens to attend the big football game with Ripon in the afternoon.

Homecoming here will be made a civic holiday as it is in other college towns. Merchants generally have agreed to decorate their stores in blue and white, the college will be specially decorated and illuminated and the holiday spirit will be in the air.

Following is the mayor's proclamation:

"Whereas, on Saturday, Nov. 12, 1921, occurs the second annual Homecoming of Lawrence college, all merchants and others are earnestly requested to decorate their places of business with the blue and white colors of the college in a spirit of cooperation with this occasion, and that all of our citizens so far as possible attend the Lawrence-Ripon football game in the afternoon, and the banquet in the evening in the Armory."

J. A. HAWES, Mayor of Appleton.

WOULD RESTRICT HUNTING GROUNDS

Appleton deer hunters and deer hunters from all corners of the state may be out of luck this fall if residents of Price and Sawyer counties succeed in their attempt to have hunting excluded from this territory hereafter.

Under the leadership of Judge Asa K. Owen of Phillips, a petition has been made to the Wisconsin Conservation commission asking that it take such action as would prevent deer hunting in the two counties this year and in the future. If positive action is taken on the petition before open season on deer begins Nov. 13, it means that deer hunters will be excluded from the best hunting grounds in the state.

A movement is now in progress to have these two counties set aside as a park in which game would be given full protection so that remaining wild life in northern Wisconsin's remote land may be saved for posterity. The plan is to buy this large tract of land with money raised through popular subscription.

Return From Funeral

Mrs. Christina Goz, returned Wednesday from Whitewater where she attended the burial of her son Joseph Goz. World war veteran who was killed in action overseas. The body rested in state in the American legion hall of the Goz post at Reedsville Monday night and Tuesday morning. Lock Up Your Car And Do More Hiking Is Doctors' Advice To Business Men

Brisk Walking is Best Exercise for T. B. M. During the Winter, Doctors Agree—Volleyball, Bowling and Bag Punching Advocated.

"Sell your automobile and buy a pair of shoes and a walking stick." That might be a shoe ad, but it isn't. It's a health slogan which is being advocated by leading doctors in an effort to revive the health giving practice of cool brisk walking, especially during the winter months when the outdoor air is invigorating and when most business men and women are greater part of their time in stuffy and overheated office buildings.

"Good brisk walking is the best possible exercise for the business man or for anybody else," said Dr. V. F.

Marshall when asked what the business man should do to keep in form since golf and other summer sports are now impossible. "The sport of hiking brings practically all of the muscles of the body into play and makes deep breathing of the fresh air a necessity. Other sports may have their places, but few can compare with the outdoor advantages of walking. The automobile has made us soft and we use it too much in daily life. I advocate that every man and woman walk to and from his place of business and spend some of the time immediately before the evening meal or in the evening walking in the open."

Catch Automobileitis

Dr. Marshall said that it is a fact that people who ride constantly have a great deal of trouble with their feet. The feet become ungalled to walking and the muscles in the lower limbs are not strong. He says that many people who ride a great deal are tired out by climbing one flight of stairs. The doctor recommends hiking for its social possibilities as well as health giving qualities since one does not have to take his exercise alone. He hinted that many a man or woman could reduce her weight by accompanying the tired business man on his quest for fresh air and exercise. "No one needs exercise more than the men who have been golfing during the summer," said Dr. George N. Pratt when asked what the golfer should do now that winter has come on. "Many of them sit in the house all during the winter and play cards as their only exercise. Bowling is splendid exercise, but it should be done where there is plenty of fresh air and not so much smoke. Volleyball is splendid, but a bit too strenuous for the business man over 50 or 55 unless he has had his heart examined. Skating is good."

Dr. Pratt too advocates more walking although he says that where it is possible the hiking should be done over uneven ground since a great many more muscles are brought into play in this way. He does not advocate setting up exercises as a general thing, but he says that they are better than nothing if taken before an open window or in a place where there is plenty of air.

Like Not Walk

"I'm not very well versed on athletics if that is what you mean by exercise," said Dr. C. E. Ryan. "Everyone needs a certain amount of exercise in the outdoors. Walking is a splendid exercise but not the way you see young people wandering aimlessly around the city. If hollering makes a sport valuable, then I should say that volleyball should take the prize. The men in the Y. M. C. A. across the street certainly make enough noise at their game and the game itself is healthful."

Dr. Pratt asked if Appleton people ever did any curling. He explained that the game is played on the ice and is similar to bowling on the green. The players slide a flat jug-like stone down the ice and the team which has the greatest number of curling stones near the goal is the winner. Dr. Marshall also advocated the punching bag as a splendid exercise which could be used as a light form of recreation or could be used as one in which to work up a good deal of perspiration. He said that it had the advantage of being a one or two man game. Dancing is also a good form of exercise if it does not involve late hours.

Some of the doctors themselves are practicing what they preach in walking as much as possible. Many of the specialists in the city who are in their offices a good share of the time walk to the hospital rather than ride. Other doctors make some of their calls on foot, but find it difficult since they have to cover a great amount of territory in a short time. Some business men in Appleton have been walking a great deal for years. Girls at Lawrence college have a department devoted to hiking and daily hikes are conducted for the girls.

Y. M. C. A. TO HAVE WRESTLING CLASS

Blackburne Engaged as Instructor—Boxing Classes May be Formed

Wrestling classes will be organized at the Y. M. C. A. Monday, Nov. 21. The course of instruction will cover a period of three months, when men to represent the Y. M. C. A. and the city, will be selected. Lyle Blackburne, Lawrence college student, has been engaged as instructor. Class periods will be held from 7:15 to 8:30 on Monday and Thursday evenings. The first period will be devoted to employed boys while the remainder of the time will be given to the men. Periods for boys may be arranged on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

Boxing classes also may be organized as soon as a capable instructor can be engaged. All members who sign up for either the wrestling classes or the proposed boxing classes must agree not to appear in any professional bout or match or to appear in any preliminary bout to a professional exhibition.

SMALL CROWD HEARS NOTED BLIND READER

Because of the number of conflicting entertainments in the city on Tuesday evening, Edward Abner Thompson, blind dramatist, read for a surprisingly small audience composed for the most part of students. Mr. Thompson began his program with humorous selections and concluded with three scenes from Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln."

Mr. Thompson is a talented and entertaining reader. His voice and manner are better suited to the heavier parts such as he took in his presentation of the story of Lincoln's life as told in the play. Although his humorous selections were well chosen and entertaining, his audience did not feel that these did justice to the reader's ability.

MENASHA CLAIMS RATE SCHEDULE IS UNFAIR

On the claim that the present schedule of street car fares discriminates between persons living in various sections of the city, Menasha has taken its fight for a reduction in fares to the Wisconsin rate commission.

This action has been instituted as the result of a vote taken at a recent meeting of the city council.

As an example of their contention, this fact is pointed out: A patron may board one of the Wisconsin Light, Heat and Power company's cars at Neenah and ride to Konomac-st., a distance of two miles, for 7 cents. But if he gets on at Delorest, and rides to Brighton Beach, a distance of only two blocks, he must pay 10 cents.

REMOVAL OF BRIDGE NOT TO DELAY TRAFFIC

Traffic on Lake-st. will not be delayed by the removal of the bridge opposite the plant of the Appleton Superior Knitting Works which is to be taken down by Anton Stadler whose bid was accepted at the last meeting of the common council. The Wisconsin Traction Light and Power Co. commenced removing its portion of the bridge Monday and any depression that still exists will be filled at once. The city also intends to fill in the depression immediately west of the bridge before the work of removing the main structure commences so that two driveways will be open for traffic while the work is going on. Mr.

Stadler said Tuesday that he will commence removing the structure any time the city is ready to have him do so.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A few drops of "Outgrow" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. "Outgrow" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

Why Can't You, Too, Be Well and Strong?

Few of us realize how precious good health is until we begin to lose it. To be well is to enjoy life and make good times for those around us. To be constantly ailing is to miss life's pleasures and to look with envy upon our robust friends and neighbors. Are you one of the unfortunates? Is your health slowly slipping away? It's time, then, you looked to your kidneys! Much sickness of today is traceable to kidney weakness. Its increase is alarming. That's because it's usually unseen or neglected. But it's easy to tell if your kidneys are weak. You may have only backache; a lameness, stiffness, or sharp stabbing pains; dizzy spells, headaches, or annoying bladder irregularities. If you have these symptoms, suspect your kidneys! Remember that delay may result in serious kidney sickness. But why dwell on the dark picture? Rather think of the brighter side! To remedy such a weakness is to add years to your life and to regain the health and strength that enables you to enter life's daily battle with joy and enthusiasm. If you've reason to suspect your kidneys, read the stories of these Appleton people. They tell how they have won back good health through Doan's Kidney Pills, the world's best-recommended kidney remedy. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Appleton Folks:

ALBERT McALLISTER, retired farmer, 1025 Oneida-st., says: "Four years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills and can recommend them highly, because of the excellent results they gave me. I was bothered with backache, which kept getting worse all the time until it was so that when I stooped over I couldn't straighten up. Sharp pains bothered me constantly and made it hard for me to do anything. I had heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and bought a box. In three days' time, the backache had disappeared and I could do my work as well as ever. I certainly can praise Doan's."

MRS. N. KLEIN, 610 Story-St., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been a great help to me for the past several years. I used them when I had severe spells of backache and when my back was lame and sore. My kidneys were disordered, acted poorly and I felt generally out of sorts. I always resorted to Doan's Kidney Pills and they relieved the backache and improved my kidneys. I have a fine opinion of Doan's and do not hesitate to endorse their merits."

A WORLD CRISIS

A few days before he was assassinated Takashi Hara, premier of Japan, cabled this statement to the people of the United States on the subject of the armament conference:

Peace in the Pacific is the insistent cry of the Japanese people. The whole nation is striving to make still clearer the already firmly cemented ties of friendship with the great people across the Pacific, despite the efforts of malicious mischief-makers on either side to create prejudice and misunderstanding. * * * Japan is ready to concur in any project for the equitable reduction of armaments which is consistent with national security and sincerely hopes that the glorious enterprise initiated by your president may be crowned with signal success. In this I am firmly convinced that I am the faithful mouthpiece of the sentiment and expressions of the entire Japanese people.

On his arrival in New York Premier Briand of France made this statement:

France is ready to join in every endeavor to avert new wars, provided she has nothing to fear for her own security, which remains one of the most solid guarantees of the peace of the world. * * * I am going to Washington not to speak long, but to act quickly. What matters is not a protracted academic discussion, but deeds, the attainment of practical results. * * * Let us all put the cards on the table and play the game quickly.

We have had similar expressions of purpose from Great Britain and Italy. We have ourselves voiced the identical sentiments. Our only qualification to armament reduction is that the existing relative military strength of nations shall be substantially preserved.

H. G. Wells says the conference "should begin with a foregone futurity, the discussion of the limitation of armaments and of the restriction of warfare in certain directions." His view is based on the premise that nations are to remain sovereign and free to make war and that no tribunal is to be set up for the final decision of international disputes except war. This is equivalent to saying that without the League of Nations or a similar organization reduction of armament and the prevention of war are impossible. Mr. Wells in principle is right. In practice he may be only partly right, in that while the necessity and the demand for reduction of armament may force the creation of an effective association of nations to preserve peace, it is conceivable that an agreement may be reached to scale down military establishments on a fixed ratio without it. Limitation of armament will not of course prevent war.

All of which reduced to fundamental facts means that if the representatives to assemble tomorrow at Washington follow the wishes of the people they will not only proceed in a business-like way to cut down armaments, limit them in the future and lift the load from humanity that today spells economic ruin throughout the world, but they will seek to provide an effective means to prevent war. The two questions are inseparable. The people demand both peace and relief from the military load. This is true of the Japanese, the British, the French, the Italians, the Americans—all. In its possibilities the Washington conference is the greatest international gathering in the history of the world. It may fall far short of its possibilities and lapse into a second-rate affair, but if it does it will be only one reason and that is that the ends are not laid on the table and that the delegates are false to the purposes and desires of the peoples who sent them there.

If the peoples do not make themselves felt in this great world crisis it will be, to again quote from Mr. Wells, because of the "incurable drift toward triviality," which is another way of saying that the average man cannot focus his attention upon big questions of universal concern long enough to be of help in their solution. Are the casual incidents of the day more important to the American people than the opportunity to escape billions of dollars in taxation and of living in peace with the rest of the world? We shall soon see.

THE NEW YORK ELECTION

The perpetuation of Tammany in power by New York city is quite as inexplicable as the retention in office of Mayor Thompson by the city of Chicago. Mayor Hyland, and that means Tammany, is re-elected in New York by a plurality of more than 400,000. The better newspapers of the city were solidly arrayed against him, declaring municipal government to be on the lowest plane in its history. Mr. Untermyer during the campaign said New York had the worst government of any great city in the world, but to this one newspaper took exception, asserting that Mr. Untermyer should have excluded Chicago, "which has never had anything that could really be called civilized government."

However this may be, Mr. Hyland's re-election follows the exposure of a colossal scandal in the building situation, neglect of the public schools that has attracted nation-wide attention and a condition of public finances which it is openly charged is leading the city to bankruptcy. Mr. Hyland won theoretically because he championed five-cent fares, but this appears to have been a fraudulent issue for the reason that the Transit commission created by the legislature proposes to consolidate the traction lines of Greater New York under city ownership and control of operation, with city-wide five-cent fares as a primary condition of the plan. The commission publicly stated that its work was not involved in the election and that it purposed to proceed with its plans regardless of who was elected.

Apparently, New York like Chicago simply likes Tammany government and all that the name implies. They want a "wide open" town and are willing to pay the price in crime, graft, vice, corruption and neglect of many fundamental necessities. It is a fine policy and shows splendid discrimination.

THE THRONE MAY STAND ON QUICKSAND

When a young lady is invited nowadays to share a kingdom, she does not think so seriously of the crown as she does of the throne. She may buy a becoming crown from a goldsmith, but there are scores of worthless thrones in the political scrapheap. In need, a crown is saleable to a money-lender, but a throne is then a liability and encumbrance.

Kind Alexander of Jugo-Slavia has ascended his seat of state, but without the Princess Sophie. His subjects wondered why he had delayed to claim his title and take his oath of office, and there were rumors that somebody else had jealous eyes on his position. It transpires, however, that he has been courting the second daughter of Prince Emmanuel, duke of Vendome and Alencon, a member of the Bourbon Orleans family.

It is said that Sophie believed she would not like to live in Belgrade. But it may be that she has not yet received a satisfactory report as to the permanency of Alexander's office or to the certainty or adequacy of his financial income. Royalty is one of the hazardous professions, and a young lady of common sense ought to assure herself that her husband has a good, steady place and could support her in comfort.

The Spirit of Armistice Day

That Armistice Day should be a nation-wide holiday in the United States is entirely fitting. The celebration at Washington and presumably throughout the country will lay special emphasis upon the idea typified by the body of the "unknown soldier" which will on that day be buried with impressive ceremonies at Arlington Cemetery—the idea that the nation is no greater than its citizens and that the human American may fulfill his duty as readily and deserve as high honor as does any man whose service brings him public recognition. Millions of Americans knew this during the war, and their conscious adherence to the ideal of loyalty created in America a spirit of idealism which rendered possible feats that seemed impossible. Men worked and fought and some of them died for America, and the signing of the Armistice was the signal for a marvelous outburst of national emotion. To celebrate Armistice Day at the behest of an unknown soldier will be to recall the day when America knew itself to be a nation.—BALTIMORE SUN (Ind. Dem.)

Women "In the Machine"

Perhaps a distinguishing characteristic of the times to date has been that men organize behind men and women behind ideas. The party and the lesser political machine is the work of men and now very seldom raises any real issue of theory in government. But there was a time in the history of the United States when men, just as women now, voted for what symbolized to them a scheme of right government. The present parties are relics of the time, though the intellectual fire has died on the altars. The Press does not believe that the function of women is to "make a political machine." It does believe that women should be organized, just as men are, to back the best candidate. As it becomes increasingly apparent that organized womanhood is going to support at the polls men who stand for certain ideas, those ideas will come to be written into platforms, but if women enter into the battle and later on decide they will lose their influence for good—GRAND RAPIDS PRESS (Ind.)

THE HYGIENIC PURPOSE OF COOKING

The plasmodium which causes malaria enters the blood of the victim in but one way, thru the bite of the breed of mosquito called Anopheles. The virus or germ which causes yellow fever enters the victim's blood thru the bite of another breed of mosquito called Stegomyia. The plague is conveyed to man by the bite of a flea which infests the fur of rats and squirrels. Mountain fever and Texas fever are conveyed to man by the bites of ticks. The African sleeping sickness (not the so-called sleeping sickness which physicians know as encephalitis lethargica in America and Canada), is conveyed to man by the bite of the tsetse fly.

Just as trifling wounds inflicted upon the skin by these parasites open a portal for infection by bacteria, may not trifling wounds inflicted upon the lining of the intestine by parasites be responsible for other infections? Metchnikoff held that appendicitis was often caused by bacterial infection implanted in the trifling wound of the mucous membrane in or near the appendix by the threadworm or pinworm. A great many cases of appendicitis have been reported in which the surgeon found at operation masses of these parasites within the inflamed organ. Unquestionably many persons harbor various parasites, such as pinworms, round worms or lumbricoids, tapeworms, yet suffer no disturbance of health therefrom. Likewise, many persons bitten by mosquitoes, fleas or ticks of the species known to carry the diseases mentioned, do not become infected, simply because the insect has not happened to bite a person who was ill of the disease.

So, the injury of the mucous membrane lining the alimentary tract by a parasite may give rise to no noticeable infection.

The invisible microscopic eggs of the intestinal parasites are ingested in drinking water or in various raw foods, or sometimes they are conveyed directly into the mouth upon unclean fingers, especially in children. The manner in which drinking water or garden vegetables or fruits become contaminated is thru pollution from human sewage or animal droppings. In some instances, the eggs are intermediate hosts of parasites of man. This is quite a different matter from the contamination of food, raw or cooked, by the handling of persons who are "carriers" of such a disease as typhoid, that is, cooks or other food handlers who at some time have had typhoid fever and for months or years afterward eliminate typhoid bacilli, and so are capable of infecting those who eat the food handled.

Professor Metchnikoff advocated and personally practiced the boiling of all drinking water as a precaution against infestation with parasites or infection with disease germs. He observed that despite popular notions to the contrary, it was impossible to distinguish the boiled from the unboiled water by taste. He advocated and practiced the boiling of all milk for five minutes, for the same reason. He condemned the eating of raw vegetables in salads, as a too ready means of transmission of parasite, ova or eggs and also of disease germs; he asserted that washing such vegetables is not a sufficient protection, that they must be at least scalded with boiling water, or better still, boiled like salads. The same rule he applied to all fruits, save those like bananas which come in an aseptic or germ-proof skin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Aggressive Hygiene Teacher

In one of our schools a rule requires that boys or girls asking to be excused on account of illness, real or imaginary, must present themselves to the hygiene teacher, who takes their temperature with a clinical thermometer. The thermometer is placed in a glass containing a little listerine and water and soda, stirred around, and then used on the next pupil—it is inserted under the tongue. Is there any danger of spreading infection of any kind in this way? (A. C. E.)

Answer—It is a gratuitous bit of nonsense anyhow, since only an occasional illness is accompanied with any change of temperature. The hygiene teacher has no right taking a pupil's temperature unless this is ordered by the pupil's physician and is agreeable to the pupil's parents.

Garlic from Italy

According to a recent editorial article in four eminent physicians of Italy, after prolonged tests, have found that garlic has great efficacy in relieving arterial tension and that it will decrease blood pressure in one week. The garlic seems to permeate the whole system, thus in time softening the arteries.—(G. J. L.)

Answer—Garlic is certainly permeating stuff, but I am afraid this is one of those frequent yarns heralded from France or Italy, phenomenal new cures that never seem to get beyond the status of newspaper yarns. Hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure are not one and the same thing. Numerous agents, medicinal, dietetic, exercise or rest, will reduce blood pressure in a week or a day or a month but that is of small significance.

The Secret Of Racial Traits

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—That the color and texture of a man's skin and hair, the form of his features, his stature, the proportion of his limbs—all of his physical characteristics which mark him as belonging to a certain race and many of the traits of mind and character which are associated with those physical characteristics are regulated by half a dozen small glands in the body, is one of the most revolutionary of the recent conclusions of science.

This much of the evidence for new theory is set forth by Arthur Keith, a British scientist, in an article recently published by the Smithsonian Institution in this country. "We now have a revolutionary idea in more ways than one. It upsets the old Darwinian theory of sexual selection as the mechanism of race variation, as completely as that, for the scientist, upset the biblical notions on the subject. It shows that what we call racial characteristics are by no means confined to persons of the race with which they are associated. In persons of the purest Nordic strain there may be Mongolian or Negro physical characteristics, and they are apt to be evidence of mental and emotional traits such as are associated with those races. In a word, here is a new key to the mystery of human character. A flat nose, a projecting lower jaw, an exceptional length of leg or size of hand has a new significance for the careful observer when he knows that those physical characteristics show the degree of development of certain of the controlling glands and that these glands have a definite effect on mind as well as on body.

Control of Growth. Lastly, it seems certain that in the course of time knowledge of the ductless glands will give man a control over his own characteristics such as he never had before. It would be a rash prediction, of the kind which very conservative scientists deplore, to say that race characteristics will be controlled, that a baby born black may be turned white, and a stocky, flat-faced Tartar child be made to grow tall and have the salient features of a Nordic; but something of the kind is certainly in some degree possible. Scientists have already produced marked changes in physical development by administering the extract of some of the glands. Thus a disease known as xeroderma has been found to be due wholly to deficiency of the thyroid gland. In it the skin becomes dry and often, yellowish and the hair tends to fall out, showing plainly that the thyroid controls in some degree the development of hair and skin, which are race characteristics. The administration of thyroid extract is a cure for this disease.

The degree of control which man may attain over his own characteristics by his knowledge of the ductless glands is limited chiefly by the factor of receptivity. Thus it has been quite definitely proved that the suprarenal glands control pigmentation. And it has been found that the action of any of the ductless glands may generally be regulated by administering an extract of those glands taken from the bodies of animals. Could then a black or yellow child be made white by a treatment with suprarenal extract begun in infancy? Probably only experiment would show, and very likely the experiment would be dangerous; but it is likely that the tissues of the child would not be sufficiently receptive of the added suprarenal substances to produce the desired effect.

Each of these ductless glands seems to have two sets of activities in that they affect both the immediate activities of the body and its form of growth. The Cause of Giants. The pituitary gland which is situated at the base of the brain and is about the size of a cherry, is known to have control over the size of the body. Disorders of it cause the disease known as acromegaly, which is marked especially by enlargement of the hands and feet. Derangements of this gland are also known to be the cause of all cases of gigantism—that is, of men who grow to be seven feet or more in height. An unusual development of the pituitary gland is thought to be one of the chief characteristics of the Caucasian or European race, and distinguished from Negro and Mongol racial types.

The interstitial glands are known to control the development of the body at puberty, and if they are in any way disordered, the development of the child into the adult is retarded or altered. Here again, it is contended, in the Caucasian race the male traits are more developed than in the Negro and Mongol races. In the latter types men and women are more alike, while the men have less hair on the skin and also less of the muscular quality which is typically male.

The suprarenal bodies, which rest upon the kidneys, have been shown to control pigmentation which causes the color of the skin. Disease of these bodies has been shown to cause a gradual darkening of the skin. That skin color is a race characteristic is obvious. The suprarenals are also known to have something to do with the maturing of the individual. Children with overdeveloped suprarenal bodies become prodigies of muscular development and also reach an early sexual maturity.

The pineal gland, which is buried in the brain and is no bigger than a pea, is the least understood of any of the ductless glands, but is now known to have some definite effect upon the development of the individual.

The thyroid gland is perhaps the most important of all these glands, both in its function of regulating bodily activities and in its effect on growth. Disease of the thyroid gland stunts and changes the growth of the body to such an extent that the victim seems to belong to another species of humanity.

Children in whom this gland is diseased become cretins, or dwarf idiots. When the affliction comes later in life, the skin and hair are affected. One type of idiot dwarfism which results from affliction of the thyroid has been known for over half a century to the medical profession as "Mongolian idiot" because the resemblance of the physical type to that of the Mongolian race.

These mysterious glands are now the great unknown of the human body. Their study perhaps promises more for the future of mankind than any other one thing in medical science.

Q. Does the carbon in the soil form the carbon compounds in plants? J. H. M.

A. An authority on fertilizer says "The carbon of the soil takes no direct part in forming the carbon compounds of plants. It is not necessary to apply carbon fertilizer to produce the carbon compounds of plants, because the carbon dioxide of the air is the source for crop production. It is estimated that there are 30 tons of carbon dioxide in the air over every acre of the earth's surface. The carbon in the soil is an indirect element of fertility because it is usually combined with other elements, as nitrogen and phosphorus which are absolutely necessary for crop production."

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

Those Foreign Debts: Collect or Cancel?

Two circumstances that have started the American press to editorializing on our foreign debts are the passage by the House of Representatives of the administration's refunding bill, with modifications, and the pronouncement by Reginald McKenna, ex-Chancellor of Exchequer of Great Britain, to the effect that it would be desirable, as a reconstruction measure, if America and Great Britain would agree to cancel their debts, coupled with the rumor that Great Britain proposes to cancel hers.

The insertion by the House in the refunding bill of a provision that no foreign indebtedness should be canceled is pronounced by the OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN (Dem.) as "proper," while the NEW HAVEN COURIER-JOURNAL (Ind.) sees in the refunding bill "a daring and unwise standing of the relation between these debts and the failure of the world to recover its poise," which offers hope that "it will encourage a further and deeper understanding until the point is reached where the actual cancellation of the debt, however it is, may appear as the shortest and least expensive cut to a revival of international trade, a healthier rate of exchange, and the possible redemption of promises regarding international peace." The WHEELING (W. V.) REGISTER (Dem.) thinks the allied debts "absolutely just," but admits that whether "his country will collect remains to be seen. America, probably, would trade them all in behalf of complete disarmament and world peace."

"As time passes," says the SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS (Ind.) "financiers and economists are coming to the view" that cancellation "would be a disaster for all concerned," and the FLORIDA METROPOLIS (Dem.) points out that "with such economic experts as Isaac Marcossion recommending cancellation of all war debts it is urgent that all facts should be taken into consideration," though it believes "the European debtors should be required to meet these debts." The DETROIT FREE PRESS (Ind.) rejecting "the theory of which European operators to justify a request for debt cancellation" that we came into a "common venture," says: "We did not enter for the sake of Italy, France, or England. We went in when our interests dictated. We did not go to war to discharge an obligation for humanity, as some Europeans and a few Americans profess to believe. We went for practical reasons of national expediency."

The TOLEDO BLADE (Ind. Rep.) points out a "phase of this debt cancellation" which, it says, "has been consistently ignored." This is that "the government would not, upon its own responsibility, write these debts off. It could hardly put the question to the people without seeming to advocate cancellation. Immediately that was done it would be transformed into a political issue. It is doubtful if an administration could survive which was put in the position of giving billions of dollars away."

The possibility of an agreement between Great Britain and the United States for cancellation of their respective debts is discussed by the CHICAGO TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) after contrasting Great Britain's share in the war settlement with ours. "In view of these facts," it says, "it does not seem improper to suggest to Great Britain that if she is unable to pay in cash what she owes us, she might turn over to us the islands of the British West Indies. Why should England decline to assign them to us in part payment of her debt incurred in obtaining ten times their area of new lands in other sections of the world?"

The NASHVILLE BANNER (Ind.) pursuing this argument, says: "Great Britain could give up all the debts the allies owe her and have a great deal to show after it in what she gained by the war, but the United States would suffer a dead loss—These countries should pay the interest on the money they borrowed; that they are all able to do, and be given indefinite time to repay the principal," while the CHATTANOOGA NEWS (Dem.), contending that "if Great Britain abandons her obligations she ought also to forego her spoils," yet thinks "this country ought to stand ready to consider an adjustment which is equitable all round."

As to the place in the conference of discussion of debts, the ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS (Denver, Ind.) expects "before the Pacific peace armament-limitation conference has gone far, a proposition will come, from England very likely, to wipe the slate clean, as a first step in economic internationalism," and the NEWARK NEWS (Dem.) finds it "hard to see how this country can prevent the other nations from bringing up such subjects as they believe to be directly related to armament limitation while the PORTLAND OREGONIAN (Ind. Rep.) thinks "if the conference should adjust Far Eastern affairs, it would do only half the work needed for economic reconstruction, and would have less than half the foundation for an agreement to limit armament."

Who Made America?

This question will be answered in part at an exhibition planned to be held this month at New York. It is to show the part the immigrant has played in the industrial life of the nation. The Belgian paper INDEPENDENCE BELGE, publishes the following interesting account of the proposed exhibition:

"Twenty-two committees representing different groups of emigrants since 1492—the date of the discovery of America by Columbus—are trying to organize an exhibition which will open this month at New York. This exhibition called 'America's Making' will show the contribution of the different countries and races in the development of the United States. For example, the Greeks will show sponge fishing in large reservoirs, as it is done on the coast of Florida where the sponge industry is always carried on with Greek capital and with Greek labor."

"The Italians will give the operas of their native country, and show statues symbolic of the numbers of workmen who have bored tunnels and subterranean passages for railways. A miniature mountain ten feet high situated in the midst of a lake, will recall the contribution of the Irish emigrants. Steamboats, submarines, etc., will symbolize the work of Irish inventors; on the mountain will be buildings showing the influence of Irish architects. The French, Dutch, Czechoslovaks, Lithuanians, Swed. Germans, etc., will take part in this exhibition the success of which will no doubt be extraordinary."

Adventures of the Twins

Oliver Edwards Barlow

The Escape
The Nuisance Fairies promised to be very good and very quiet and to stay downstairs, while Nancy and Nick cleaned their second floor. And they kept their word. Even when Howly Thunder noticed something and winked at his best friends, Jumpy Lightning and Old Man Flood, nodding his head at the same time toward the front door, he did it ever so quietly.

And when Jumpy Lightning and Old Man Flood saw that he meant they nodded back quietly, too. This was what they saw. The twins had slammed the door but they had not locked it. The way was clear for all the Nuisance Fairies to escape.

Upstairs the Twins were as busy as Roman candles on the Fourth of July. They swept and dusted and scrubbed and cleaned and made beds and moved furniture and soon had everything shining.

"Somebody's going to have a big surprise," said Nancy, surveying their work with pride. "I think they deserve something nice for being so good don't you, Nick. Let's call them all up."

Nick was about to agree when distant roaring reached their ears. The twins rushed to the window and looked down to the earth, far, far below. What a sight met their eyes! The Nuisance Fairies had escaped, every mother's son of them, and they were quarreling. Old Man Flood had Sizzly Dry Weather by the neck trying to choke him, while Jack Frost hopped around on one foot and laughed.

Howly Thunder and Jumpy Lightning were fighting Mr. Storm, and Mr. Storm was raging mad. "Get out both of you. I don't need you now that summer is over. Get out," he cried.

The next thing the Twins saw was Sprinkle-Blow striding into their midst and doing all he could to stop them.

"Quick!" said Nick, "we must go down and help him."

Icing Without Eggs

Boiled frosting for cake can be made without egg whites. The icing stays soft and creamy and is excellent for a spice cake. The water also: One and one-half cups granulated sugar, 2-3 cup milk, 2 teaspoons flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Put sugar and milk in a saucepan and cook without stirring until a soft ball is formed in cold water. Put the flour in a bowl. Just before the sirup reaches the soft ball stage pour a little over the flour, stirring to make a smooth paste. Add more sirup and stir till smooth. When sirup is done pour over the other mixture. Let cool and beat until creamy. Add vanilla after cooling. Spread on warm cake.

Menu for Tomorrow
BREAKFAST: Bananas with uncooked cereal, poached eggs on toast, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Salmon sandwich, ginger cookies, tea.

DINNER: Flashed round steak, gravy, mashed potatoes, canned string beans, cottage pudding with caramel sauce, coffee.

My Own Recipes
Most all uncooked cereals are improved if put in the oven for a few minutes before serving. The heat restores crispness.

Salmon Sandwich
Flaked salmon, lettuce, mayonnaise salad dressing, white bread, butter.

Cut the bread one-fourth inch thick. Spread lightly with butter. Put the pieces of bread and butter on a plate to serve. On each piece put a leaf of lettuce, cover lettuce with carefully flaked salmon and pour over salad dressing. A slice of dill pickle may be served on each plate. The sandwich is left open.

Flashed Round Steak
One pound round steak ground, 2 tablespoons bacon fat and butter, 1 slice onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper.

Melt fat in spider. Let slice of onion stay in fat while melting and heating. When hot remove onion. Put in meat and shake to separate the pieces. Season with salt and pepper and fry, stirring to make each bit of meat brown. Then pack in the frying pan and let brown on the bottom. Fold and turn like an omelet. Brown 2 tablespoons of flour in the fat left in the spider and add milk or water slowly to make gravy. Serve the meat on a platter and the gravy in a gravy dish.

Stuffed Breast of Veal
Four or five pounds of breast of veal, 1 1/2 cups bread crumbs from soft part of loaf, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, a few gratings of nutmeg, 1 egg, hot water.

Remove bones and tendons from meat and flatten with a rolling pin to a uniform thickness. Rub both sides of meat with salt and pepper. Melt butter and add to bread crumbs. Season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. Add parsley. Add egg unbeaten and mix well. Then add enough hot water to make moist. Spread stuffing in roaster and roast in a moderate oven for 2 1/2 hours. Boil bones and use broth for gravy.

Caramel Sauce
One and one-half cups granulated sugar, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 dessertspoon cornstarch.

Melt sugar in an iron or aluminum pan. Put over a hot fire and stir constantly until melted. Let the sirup become a golden brown. Add the boiling water and simmer until the sirup is dissolved. Add butter and cook ten minutes. Dissolve the cornstarch in a little cold milk and stir into the first mixture. Let boil one minute and put over hot water to keep hot.

FIND LITTLE T. B. AT CHEST CLINIC

Outagamie Residents for Most Part Possess Excellent Health

Kaukauna — Tuberculosis in Kaukauna and the surrounding territory runs exceptionally low. Less than 10 per cent of those examined at the free clinic held in Elk hall under the auspices of the Kaukauna Woman's club as part of the program of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, were found to have the disease in any of its forms. The statement was made Wednesday morning and was taken from data gathered from the first day's work of the clinic.

It was revealed, however, that there are more underweight children in this section than in any other ever covered by the clinic. A complete report of the clinic will be prepared as soon as possible and sent back to this city.

The people of the county showed their willingness to combat the white plague and assist in its extermination by attending the clinic from every part of the county. As usual, there were far more present for examination than could be handled by the doctors in spite of the fact that Dr. John Kelly of Manitowoc and Dr. C. D. Boyd of this city, spent their time in helping Dr. A. A. Pleyte with the examinations.

No money was collected for any of the work of the clinic. It is financed entirely by the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals which go on sale every year. The woman's club will push a vigorous seal-sale soon. Mrs. John Hansen is chairman of the committee in charge.

Seventy examinations for tuberculosis and other troubles were made Tuesday and nine out of that number were found to have the disease in one of its forms.

Dr. C. D. Boyd, Miss Mary Niel, community nurse, Miss Jennie Bell, industrial nurse and members of the Woman's club had a part in making the clinic a success. Among those who assisted were Miss Bertha Schultz county nurse, Minnie Fisher, and Miss Helen Rennie of River-view sanatorium.

Miss Mary L. Downes, high chief ranger of Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, explained the new rates of insurance at a meeting of the Kaukauna courts Tuesday evening in Elk hall.

Foresters from Appleton, Menasha, Fond du Lac, Waukegan, Kimberly and Little Chute were present. Miss Jennie Nyland, deputy high chief ranger, Fond du Lac, was also present. Dr. A. A. Pleyte, examining doctor for the chest clinic here, also gave a short address.

BITTER BATTLE ON KAUKAUNA GRIDIRON

Little Chute and American Legion Team Meet for Valley Championship

Kaukauna—Sunday is homecoming and Fox river valley football championship day. The American legion football squad is to meet the Little Chute team at 2:30 in the afternoon on the ball park grid.

It will be different game from any game yet played on the Kaukauna grounds. Other teams who met defeat at the hands of the legion were composed of men with football training. In the legion team and in the Little Chute team there are men who work six days a week and turn out a few hours each night for necessary practice and who have no time for scientific training which includes dieting, hiking and gymnastics.

Primed for Game
Kaukauna high school will wind up its football season Friday afternoon with a game with the Lawrence freshmen. Appleton high defeated the college fresh in a real battle by a score of 3 to 0 and it is no secret that the orange and black will be hard put to win. The team will be strengthened by post graduates and ineligible and the freshmen probably will find a hot argument awaiting them.

For City Title
An interesting football game is scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock Sunday morning at the Kaukauna ball park between the Hilltoppers and the Arcade Athletics. The game is to decide the city championship of their class.

Fox Club to Have Team
The Fox club is getting started in basketball. Efforts will be made to put out a strong team that will compete with any amateur team in the valley. Several men have signed up and practice will begin soon. The Fox club developed amateur basketball in this city and made it a popular sport.

Kaukauna.
Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Ellen Bledgett and daughter Helen of Neenah, were guests of friends in this city Sunday.

Mrs. H. Van Denzen, Elsie, Gus and Donald Van Denzen will auto to Milwaukee Sunday to visit friends and relatives.

Mrs. Dorothy Hitting returned to work as stenographer in the Chicago Northwestern railroad shops Thursday morning.

A. K. ELLIS DENIES PACT WITH NEENAH TO KILL BUS LINE

Traction Company Head Admits Effort to Stifle Competition in Court Answer

In reply to charges made in a court complaint filed in Outagamie county, circuit court several weeks ago by A. C. Homan, of Neenah, owner of the Appleton-Neenah bus line, A. K. Ellis has filed papers in court in which he makes a sweeping denial of the charge that he conspired with the Neenah city council to discriminate against operation of Homan's busses in order to benefit the Wisconsin Traction Light Heat and Power company.

In the complaint filed by Mr. Homan, Ellis was directly accused of influencing members of the Neenah council to secure passage of three city ordinances which the complainant declared were intended to drive his busses out of business.

In his reply to the complaint, Mr. Ellis makes several denials and admissions. He repeatedly denies that he in any way attempted to influence the city council of Neenah to pass the three mentioned ordinances regulating bus traffic.

The reply denies Mr. Homan's statement that the city of Neenah has no power to regulate the operation of motor vehicle carrying passengers.

It denies that the authority of the city of Neenah is confined to giving its consent to the operation of such motor busses and requiring payment of a reasonable compensation for regulating street traffic and other expenses.

It denies that the three ordinances passed are not valid.

It denies that Mr. Ellis has any knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to where the route or territory is over which Mr. Homan operates or claims to be lawfully entitled to operate his motor busses.

It denies that Mr. Ellis has any knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether Mr. Homan lawfully operates any motor vehicles upon or entitled to the route traveled by street cars operated by the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company.

It admits that certain streets in Neenah are used in common by the A. C. Homan bus line and the traction company.

It denies that Mr. Ellis is an agent of the traction company but admits that he is an officer of it.

It admits that Mr. Ellis desires to eliminate operation of A. C. Homan's busses as a competitor in carrying passengers for hire between Appleton and Neenah.

It denies that Mr. Ellis conspired with any person or with members of the Neenah council to pass ordinances discriminating against the Homan busses.

It denies that Mr. Ellis has sought enforcement of Neenah ordinances regulating motor bus traffic.

It denies that the city of Neenah has done anything to benefit the interest of the traction company or for the purpose of injuring A. C. Homan or his business.

It denies that this action of the Neenah council has been criticized by citizens of Neenah but charges Mr. Homan with instigating and promoting anything of the nature of public criticism of the ordinances which did occur.

It denies that the enforcement of the Neenah ordinances will utterly destroy the business of the bus line.

It closes by asking the court to dismiss Mr. Homan's complaint with costs.

The three ordinances referred to in the charges and the reply were passed by the Neenah city council early in the summer. One regulates the time of arrival and departure of the busses at certain points in the city of Neenah. Another designates places where motor busses may and may not park or receive or discharge passengers. The third requires payment of an annual license fee of $100 for every intercity motor bus operated on the streets of Neenah.

PHONE EVOLUTION TOLD TO WORKERS

Wisconsin Telephone Company Entertains 100 of Its Employees

One hundred local and district employees of the Wisconsin Telephone company were entertained at the vocational school Tuesday evening through the courtesy of Principal V. S. Ford.

Presentation of a five-reel motion picture showing the evolution of the telephone art and industry comprised the program at the vocational school. This entertainment was followed by a lunch at the Sherman Cafe after which officers of the company made short talks.

war. Making of various telephonic apparatus was also shown in detail.

J. T. Quinlan, district manager, thanked local employees for their work and cooperation in making possible better results in all departments.

L. Killam, general plant superintendent of Milwaukee, explained the recently established Wall Memorial fund. John O'Day, assistant to the vice-president, explained the employees benefit fund and the employees stock purchase plan.

William Gust, wire chief at the Appleton exchange, told of his visit to the Western Electric company's plant at Hawthorne, Ill., in which he described how various electrical supplies are manufactured.

Other district and local supervisory employees who were present were James Hobbins, F. N. Belanger, F. A. Hansen, C. A. Thomas and Thomas F. Garland.

Grocers Meeting

Appleton Grocers association held a regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening which was taken up with routine business. There was a large attendance.

Mr. Wm. Koehn who lives at 1423 Teutonia-ave., in Milwaukee is telling every one how Garren's Tonic has made him feel twenty years younger.

"I was so nervous and unstrung that I had to quit work and stay at home as I couldn't sit still for a minute. For the past year I could eat no solid food, as it would cause me to bloat up and gave me such cramps until I thought I would die. My head would ache so badly until I thought it would burst, besides I had dizzy spells and was so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise and at night I tossed back and forth all night long.

I had tried many kinds of medicines without getting relief, when a friend who had taken Garren's Tonic with good results told me about it. So I bought and got relief from my heart burn immediately, my bowels began to move and I noticed that those cramps had left me, as well as the sour taste and bad breath. Now I can eat most anything I want without any of those disagreeable symptoms I mention, my nerves are now steady and I get up in the morning feeling twenty years younger. I have never been a good sleeper before, but now I sleep fine and will continue to praise Garren's Tonic for the great benefit I have derived from it, and will never be without it in the house."

Garren's Tonic is sold in Appleton by the Schlicht Bros. Co., in Kaukauna by E. A. Meyer, in Greenville by H. H. Schulze, in Dale by Abends Pharmacy, in Bear Creek by John W. Statter, in Seymour by S. G. McCord, and by the leading druggists in every city.

High Cliff Is No Safe Haven For Red Foxes

Three red foxes which held their rendezvous in the neighborhood of High Cliff up till a few days ago will foxhunt no longer.

All because Jack McHugh's foxhound followed by his master and Alfred Gosha and Mike McHugh, got on their trails and overtook them with lead.

The three hunters left Appleton Saturday and returned with three fine fox pelt shortly Tuesday afternoon. Alfred Gosha lives at 1207 Emory-st. and Jack McHugh at 1330 Carver-st. Mike McHugh's home is at Shiocton.

The hunters believe that there are a number of foxes near High Cliff and they attribute the success of their expedition to their dog's ability to trail foxes.

Saturday's Game Here Recalls Men Who Made Lawrence Grid History

Lawrence Has Won Eleven Out of Twenty-One Games Played With Ripon in Last Twenty-seven Years — Won First Game in 1901.

Next Saturday's homecoming game will be the twenty-second time that Lawrence and Ripon colleges mixed on the football field since the opening of athletic relations between the two schools 27 years ago. In those 22 battles Lawrence has finished on top 11 times and Ripon was victor in 8 scraps. One of the battles—in 1899—resulted in a 6 to 6 tie. Lawrence not only has the better of Ripon in the number of games won but also has piled up more scores than its ancient enemy, having counted 264 points while Ripon scored 225. Ripon was shut out without a marker seven times and Lawrence was treated to a coat of whitewash on three occasions.

Relations with the Red and White school were opened in 1893 when Ripon grabbed the game by a 24 to 6 score. It was the first year Lawrence ever had a football team. The squad was organized by Walter Garry who coached and captained the outfit. Nearly the entire team was lost by graduation and when Dr. Raycroft came here to coach the squad in 1894 he had only three or four men as a nucleus. As a result Ripon walloped the local team by an 80 to 0 score, the worst beating Lawrence has ever received. Most of the Ripon men were veterans that year, having played together since 1891. John Farley, now a member of the Lawrence college faculty, was a member of that team and was elected captain the following year. James A. Wood, now a trustee of the college and alderman from the First ward, was playing center and the old records indicate that Jim was no slouch in snapping back the ball and played a whole of a defensive game. William Joliffe, Hanrahan and Will Wescott are others of the old timers who played on those historic teams.

How Rivalry Started
Ripon kept up its winning streak over Lawrence in the next two years, although it was becoming harder to whip the Blue and White and in 1896 the game turned into a free for all fight in which several men were injured. The intense rivalry between the two schools may be said to date from that game.

Lawrence, however, had enough of that kind of game and refused to schedule more contests with Ripon until 1899 when the game played a 6 to 5 tie—the only tie game in the history of their relations. The next year passed without a game but in 1901 Lawrence went into the scrap determined to even the score. It must have been a terrific battle, judging from the old description, but when the smoke had cleared away Lawrence was setting on top with a 23 to 6 victory to its credit. The chronicler of that game said that the most excited spectator was no less a personage than Doc Sammy himself, meaning Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence, who was described as prancing up and down the sidelines and cheering with all the enthusiasm of a school boy. It was a great day for Lawrence and for Appleton when the local school handed its first trimming to the chesty Riponites.

Lawrence kept on winning from Ripon until 1906 when Ripon made a comeback. The 1905 team trimmed Ripon 59 to 0, almost evening up the 80 to 0 game of a decade before.

Lawrence Takes Lead
Ripon has won only five games from Lawrence since the beginning of the present century.

Following are score of all the Ripon-Lawrence games up to date.

Colonel Frank Scheller, now of Neenah, twice captain of the Lawrence squad, was captain of the 1901 team, the first to walloped the Riponites.

Old Time Stars
Football players of those early days were every bit as fast as those produced these days, the ancient records declare. Among the stars of the teams of 1897 and 1898 whose names are emblazoned on the Lawrence records are R. P. Hutten, now head of the Anti-Slavery League of Wisconsin; "Babe" Heister, Burd Frick, "Bo" Wescott, Claude Cole, Fred Rogers, "Dad" Pifer, Guy Goodsell and Karl Stansbury. Guy Goodsell, now Dr. Goodsell, is one of the most prominent Methodist pastors in the middle-west and was asked to succeed Dr. T. R. Wood as pastor of the local Methodist church.

John Laird, one of the best ends who ever were a Lawrence suit, played with the team of 1899. Fred V. Hennemann, now district attorney, played fullback in 1899 or about that time. Allan Jorgensen was another member of that team who still is remembered here. Laird now is practicing medicine at Black Creek.

Cal Gochnauer, Bill Spaulding, Cliff Pierce, Hansen and Rex were the big stars in 1901 and the three years which followed. Gochnauer was the team's quarterback and is remembered as one of the best field generals that Lawrence ever has had. It was about that time that Lawrence's famous center trio, Sorenson at center, Boyden and Karnop at guards, was in its glory. It was one of the greatest lines that Lawrence has ever had.

The cup of joy for Lawrence was filled to overflowing in 1902 when the local school won the state championship for the first time by virtue of its victory over Beloit by a 24 to 0 score. Du Cray was captain of that squad which won Lawrence's first victory over the southern school. The demonstration in Appleton after that game never has been equalled. Du Cray suffered a broken jaw early in the battle but kept on playing until he was forced out with a broken shoulder. Nearly every member of the team was a cripple after the game. Gochnauer broke his shoulder in a game the following year.

More Recent Stars
There have been a lot of Lawrence men who achieved stardom since those glorious days of two decades ago. There is Harry Sylvester, one of the greatest quarterbacks in the west. "Dutch" was a splendid drop kicker and expert in kicking field goals. He broke his right knee in a game, making it necessary for him to learn to kick with his left foot and in a short time he was as proficient as ever.

Id timers will remember Clyde Stevenson who played way back in 1903 to 1905. Then they recall Robert (Bob) Walters who captained the squad which walloped Ripon 59 to 0 in 1905. Bob was some great guns as a tackle in those days, the record shows. Among the later heroes of the gridiron, fans will remember Wiley, Sampson, Elmer Abrahamson, than whom there was no better footballer in these United States, the three Tippet boys and a host of others who made football history.

Change Of Pace Wins Football Games

COACH MORAN — OF CENTRE — WHO APPLIES 'BIG LEAGUE STUFF' TO FOOTBALL

The change of pace is as effective on the gridiron as the ball field.

Coach Charley Moran of Centre College has proved that theory to the satisfaction of dear old Harvard.

With "Bo" McMillin playing the leading role, Moran treated Harvard to a bitter dose of the "double cross." Centre College sprang the big surprise of the season when it defeated Harvard 6 to 0. The victory of the little Kentucky college over Harvard was due to brains, with Centre showing the way.

In 1920 the slogan of Centre College was "Score." Piling up lopsided scores against the opposition was the big idea. In 1921 Centre changed the "Score" slogan to "Hold 'Em."

Changes Style
In 1920 the use of the forward pass was the favorite play of Centre. Coach Moran had devised a score of formations that baffled his opponents. In 1921 Centre changed its style of play entirely. Moran having built up a reputation on the forward pass, used that style of play as a threat against Harvard. The Crimson players were coached to constantly be on the alert for the forward pass.

Then it didn't happen. Instead of the pass, Moran used a running attack. Bucks off tackle and runs around the end were his favorite plays. With the Crimson line wide open, expecting the forward pass, the running attack proved most successful.

Coach Moran simply brought some of his baseball knowledge to the gridiron. As a National League umpire, he has observed that the great pitchers were the fellows who used their brains, the pitchers who used a change of pace, mixed them up so to speak. He also observed that the team that constantly used the same style didn't get very far. It was the club that mixed the hit and run with the steal and sacrifice, and resorted to the waiting game when the pitcher was wild, that was hard to beat.

Charley Moran's Centre College team defeated Harvard (because it treated them to the old change of pace. The story is best told in a statement made by "Bo" McMillin, at the close of the game McMillin by the way, made the touchdown that beat Harvard.

Bo Tells Why
"Centre College beat Harvard by crossing the Crimson players and coaches. Last season we resorted to open play almost entirely, played a game that thrilled the spectators, but we were beaten. Centre has an even more varied system of open play this year, but we didn't use it. The forward pass was our threat play. Harvard was constantly expecting it. It opened up the line, making a running attack most effective."

Coach Moran, in explaining the victory, simply said: "Centre played brainy football. Our line surprised Harvard by its ability to hold. Our running attack upset them because the Harvard players were always looking for a forward pass."

Now we may expect a boxers' strike. Scrapers, Managers, Towel Swingers Make Plans for "Union"

By Henry L. Farrell
By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Poor down trodden boxers who can make only from $5,000 to $25,000 an hour when they are working and poor abused managers who can only make about half that when their boys are at it, have resolved to organize something like a union to protect their interests.

The Boxers Protective association which is to include fighters, managers, seconds, rubbers, towel swingers and their friends, will be built off a pattern to be fashioned by a committee consisting of Jack Curley, Dan McNetrick, Dan Morgan, Eddie Mead, Jim Buckley, Charley Harvey, Joe Woodman, Harry Lenney, Jack Reardon, Penny Leonard, Willie Lewis, Billy Wallam, Billy Gibson, George England and Frank Bagley.

The outline of the proposed union is to form a governing body to uplift boxing and place it on a spotless plane through a supervising association like the United States Lawn Tennis association or the A. A. U.

Tex Rickard may chuckle over the new union, especially if the "closed shop" is incorporated in the by-laws. The state boxing commission also may get a kick out of the layman's effort to clean up boxing, one of the duties imposed upon the commission by the state.

The commission really started the proposed new ruling body when it ruled that managers could not have contracts calling for more than one third of their boy's earnings. The commission also intimated that managers were not an asset to boxers.

Larson, Madison; treasurer, F. M. Werner, Mount Horeb; directors, C. J. Dodge, Windsor and R. C. Graves, John. The convention will close on Thursday.

OSHKOSH LOOKING FOR HARD BATTLE WITH LOCAL SQUAD

Victory Over Appleton Will Put Sawdust City Team in Running for Title

Convinced that a victory over Appleton Friday afternoon will put its team in the front line of state championship contenders, Oshkosh high school is making elaborate preparations for the game. The team has had two weeks of rest and consequently every member is in fine condition. The squad is coached by Elmer Abrahamson, formerly a star on the Lawrence squad.

Oshkosh has defeated some of the best teams in this section of the state and now is considering challenges from West Division of Milwaukee, Antigo and other schools. If it defeats Appleton it probably will schedule a game with one of the strongest teams for Thanksgiving day.

Vincent's men are in excellent fettle for the battle. None of the players was hurt in last Saturday's game with Kaukauna and all will be ready to start against the Sawdust city.

In spite of the intense interest in the Lawrence-Ripon game the day following a large number of Appleton fans will accompany the team. One of the largest crowds of the season is predicted by Oshkosh gridiron fans.

ROGERS PICKED TO WRESTLE HILL HERE NEXT WEEK

Canadian Champion Booked for Match in Armory Wednesday, Nov. 16

Jack Rogers, the big Canadian champion, will be the next opponent of George Hill on the wrestling mat. Promoter Elmer Johnston announced on Thursday that the Canuck will meet the local star in the armory Wednesday evening, Nov. 16.

Rogers lost to Hill in straight falls here last year after one of the best matches of the season. Rogers is remembered for the clean game that he plays and for the little talk after the match in which he urged fans to help wrestlers keep the game clean. The Canadian has been meeting many of the best wrestlers in the country and has won more than his share of matches. His last defeat was at the hands of John Freberg who won one fall after nearly two hours of wrestling.

Mr. Johnston has had considerable difficulty in getting a match for Hill. Sanders could not be obtained for the battle and Clapham decided that he wasn't in good enough condition to take on a man of Hill's reputation and declined the match.

Rogers is sure to give the fans a mighty interesting evening. He is said to have improved wonderfully over last year and is in fine shape to give Hill a hard fight.

LABOR CALLS ON CONFERENCE TO PUT END TO WAR

Union Men Adopt Resolutions to be Sent to Washington—Hear Talks

Resolutions were unanimously adopted by Appleton Trades and Labor council at its meeting in evening urging upon the disarmament conference which begins its sessions in Washington, Saturday the necessity of turning "its energies and abilities from war to peace, from destruction to building."

The resolutions urge stoppage of waste by which 93 cents of each dollar goes for past or future wars and 7 cents to development and progress. The petition says the Appleton workers not only pay the cost of American disarmament but demand international agreement; demand that the conference succeed in winning the world away from war.

Declaring our machinery for democracy is sufficient, the resolutions say the world is capable of peace based on justice. The conference is charged to obtain the international agreements that will bring it about. Copies of the resolutions are to be sent to President Harding, the secretary of state and each American member of the arms parley.

Henry Roesch, Milwaukee, supervisor of apprenticeship in the state for the Wisconsin industrial commission, addressed the meeting explaining what is being done for the training of apprentices, and how the commission is endeavoring to state regulations to see that every youth has a chance to learn a trade.

Six members of the local council were appointed as a committee to assist Mr. Roesch in obtaining a census of apprentices in local industries and to give the industrial commission any needed cooperation. Those named are P. Myran, K. Tullman, George Brock, Henry Luedke, J. Kasten and F. S. Martin.

Students And Town Folks Hang Out Welcome Sign As Homecoming Nears

"Hello" Day is Observed at College to Stir up Enthusiasm—Business Men Begin Decorating Their Stores.

The thermometer of Homecoming spirit rose high among the Lawrence students on Thursday morning when a rousing meeting of the students instituted the annual "Hello" day as a prelude to the arrival of the "old grads" on Friday. Each year one day is set aside at Lawrence when everyone abandons all forms of salutation except: "Hello, how are you?" with which he greets every faculty member and student who answers: "Fine, how's yourself?"

Dr. J. B. MacLarg presented the plan to the students Thursday morning and in a very few moments had the complete cooperation of the student body as the greetings from class to class and from student to faculty rang through the auditorium. The speaker announced the first event of the homecoming, the big massmeeting in the old chapel on Friday evening to be followed by a great torch light parade led by the Lawrence band.

Lawrence Singer, cheer leader, appropriately called "Pep," made ing school plan to arrive Thursday evening, most of them having been granted a holiday. The lights on the dome of Main hall are ready to be lighted for the big event. Preparations for the banquet and registration of alumni have been completed. The new Lawrence room, west of the north entrance of Main hall is the alumni headquarters. Attention of Appleton alumni is again directed to all the events of the homecoming and those who live "out in town," as the college people put it are especially urged to wear the alumni buttons available at registration headquarters.

NILES REFUSES TO PROSECUTE BOYS

Declares He Gave Permission to Young Men to Take His Car

Fred Niles, whose automobile was taken from his garage and wrecked by Irvin Born, Harry Welhouse and Bradford Deering a few nights ago, Thursday declared in court that he had granted permission to the boys to take the car after the boys had told the police that they had stolen it. Following his statement the case against the three young men was dismissed on motion of District Attorney Fred V. Heinemann.

Immediately after the accident, in which the car was wrecked and Welhouse injured, the young men admitted that they had taken the car without permission. The next morning Mr. Niles also is said to have told the police that he had not given the use of the machine. Thursday morning, however, he said the boys were given the right to use the car and refused to prosecute.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hansen and Mr. and Mrs. Peter East and daughter Nora, attended the wedding of a relative at Cicero Wednesday.

FARMERS EAGER FOR INSTALLATION OF STOCK SCALES

Railroad Company Wants to Avoid Putting Scales in Small Towns

More than 25 farmers attended the hearing conducted in the city hall Thursday morning by the railroad commission on the petition of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad to be exempted from constructing scales at 14 stock shipping points in this locality in accordance with a new state law requiring scales to be built at all places where livestock is shipped.

L. E. Gettle of the Wisconsin railroad commission, W. A. Hayes, general attorney for the Soo line, Daniel Riordan, assistant general attorney for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, and several of each company's engineers were in attendance and heard the testimony given by the farmers.

Towns where the exemptions are desired are Greenville, Sugar Bush, Bear Creek, Clintonville, Wrightstown, Reedsville, Wittenberg, Tigerton, Birnamwood, Cleveland, Marathon City, Starford and Edgar. Two other groups of towns in other parts of the state were represented at other hearings in Milwaukee and Madison on the same question.

The railroad company is given until Jan. 1, 1922 to install scales, but may not be required to do so at any point where the railroad commission decides scales are not necessary. The information gained from shippers at the hearings will be used by the commission to form its decisions.

Farmers appeared anxious to have scales at convenient points so they would not overload cars and could have their own figures as to the weight of their shipments. They needed this especially in cooperative shipping companies. It was said in the testimony, because the expense of shipping could be apportioned out more equitably among those whose animals were in the car. Considerable cross questioning was done by attorneys relative to statements made by the farmers.

ANOTHER BLACK MARK ON SHIPPING RECORD

Appleton again took a setback Tuesday in the race for a 100 per cent perfect package record according to the daily report filed with Appleton Chamber of Commerce by transportation companies.

On that day, 1,355 packages were delivered for shipment to local railroads and express company. Six of these were classified as imperfect. Two bills of lading did not specify whether cartons, cases or crates were being shipped. Three carried old markings of previous addresses. One article was not properly described in its bill of lading.

The hearings will be used by the commission to form its decisions.

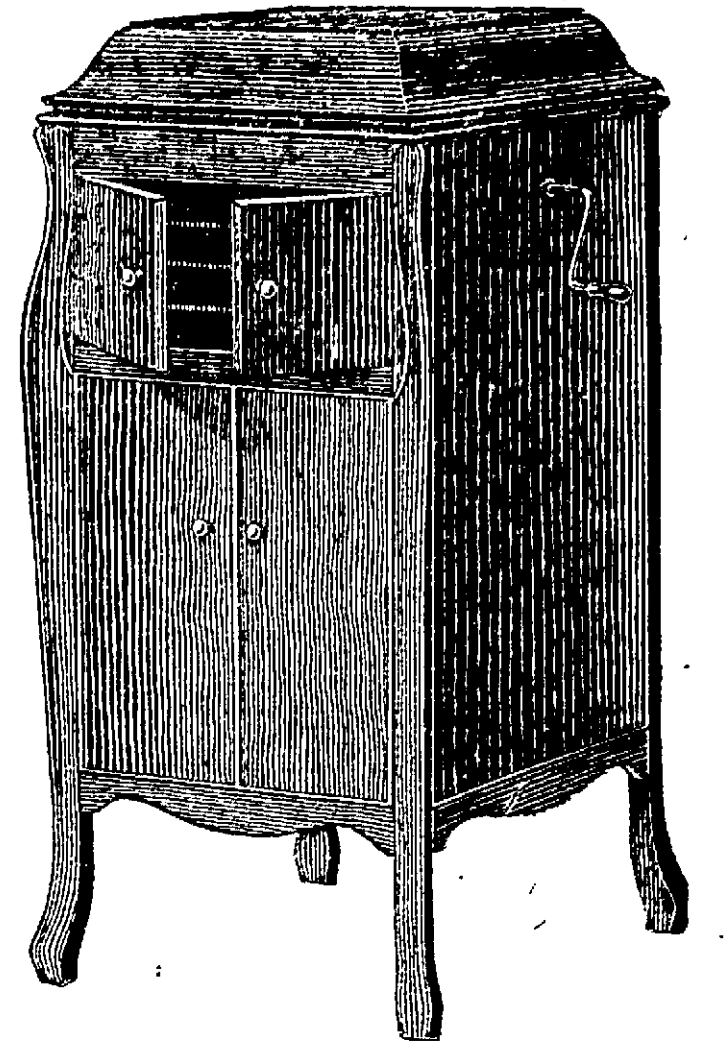

Farmers appeared anxious to have scales at convenient points so they would not overload cars and could have their own figures as to the weight of their shipments. A Smile In The News

Sam Says:
This is not leap year but remember, young man, if you press your suit too hard you will doubtless have to spend more money for clothes.

The Ideal Combination
My landlord's different than most. Although perhaps I shouldn't boast. But—well he takes it as his task To do whatever I may ask; He mends the roof, or paints the wall.

Reapers dining room and hall:
In brief, he seems to take a pride In doing things as I decide.

My janitor is quite unlike
The kind you usually strike; He keeps up steam, he tends the fire Whenever it is my desire. He never gives me any lip. He doesn't ask or want a tip. He feeds my dog, he feeds my cat; Few janitors are nice as that!

You ask me, where are landlords
Who with such kindness abound? And where do janitors exist? Whose virtues make so long a list? The secret's plain enough to trace—I am the landlord of my place. I own my house—and saving self—I am the janitor myself!

Portinent Question
Who will wipe the tears from the eyes of the crying need which so many orators talk about?

Tom Sims says: "Houses with high rents have a vacant look." Maybe so in your town, Tom, but in Appleton the landlord looks full.

Watch Your Step
In speaking of the modern dance, J. P. McEvoy said a year ago that dancing is wrestling set to music and that in learning one must master the holds first.

Eight big prize fights are on schedule for Armistice Day. We thought fighting was supposed to have ceased on that day.

Jealousy
A person to envy Is Mary Munn; She has her Christmas shopping Already done.

Do You Remember
The old fashioned woman who, from a standpoint of economy, always purchased the garment which contained the most material?

Begin starving a little each day now for the big feed on Thanksgiving Day.

Now Don't Rush the Divorce Bureau
An Appleton man is applying for a divorce because his wife has been too free with his money.

In considering disarmament it is well to remember that most of the women are in favor of it but they will not give up their faith in the theory that a sharp tongue is mightier than the sword.

No Sale
Said the active minded merchant I'm not musically inclined. But the clang of the cash register is music to my mind.

Watch For 'Em
Man over at Cassville was killed by a bear the other day. That's nothing. Statistics show that hundreds of people commit suicide each year because of bore.

God Save the Editor
The Headline should have read: MISS RUSSELL'S FETE IS TALK OF CITY

But through the error of an inspired printer or his devil it appeared thus:

MISS RUSSELL'S FETE IS TALK OF CITY

At the Waterside
By Billy

Wide, beautiful, silvery Fox You bring sweet memories As you wash the rocks: Memories of days gone, by As I sat beside you beneath the sky. How long were you here?

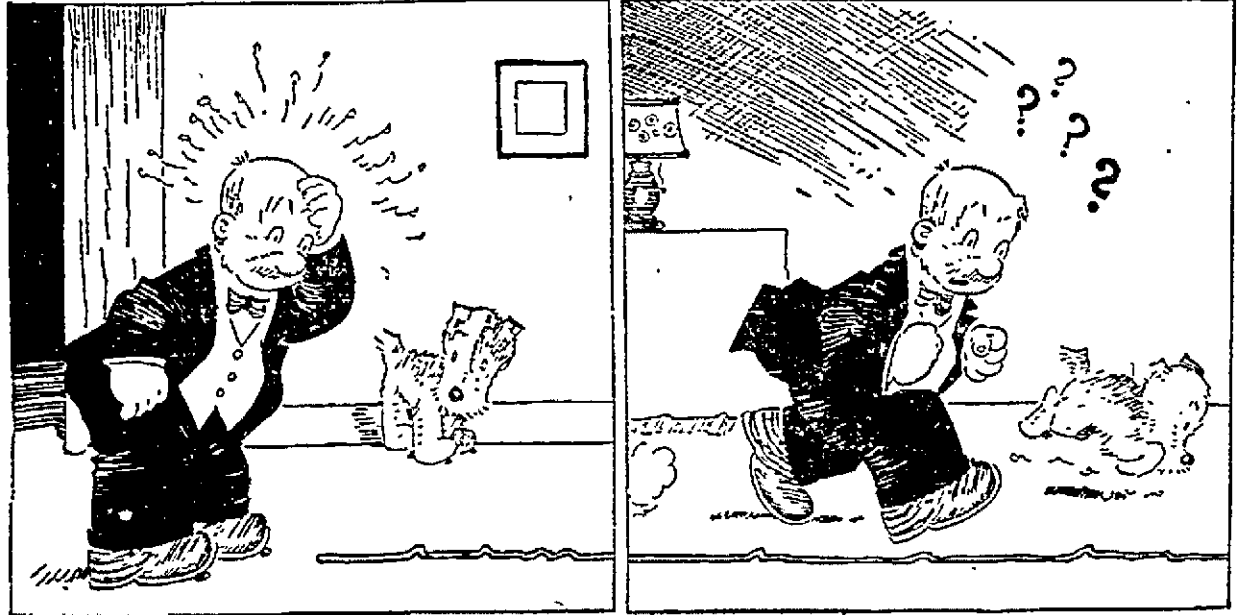

As you hurry along No man can say Till you reach the bay. I will love you always Till death's morn dawn And others will love you When I am gone.

Some men are already putting Harding up for reelection. Because he is a doctor of laws they claim Congress can't get along without him.

A column is meant to support something but it needs lots of support. Won't YOU help? It will be appreciated by

GRACE LUSK FREED TO REGAIN HER HEALTH

Madison — Grace Lusk, serving a nineteen year sentence in Waupun for the murder of Mrs. David Roberts of Waukesha as the climax of a love triangle, was ordered released by Gov. Blaine on Wednesday in order to enable her to regain her health, which has been steadily failing since her imprisonment.

Miss Lusk will come to Milwaukee to receive medical treatment at Sacred Heart sanitarium. She will leave the prison within a few days. The release order provides for her liberation until she recuperates. At that time her application for pardon will probably be considered.

EXAMINATIONS FOR POSTOFFICE JOBS
 Civil service examinations for clerkships in the North Kaukauna postoffice are to be held there Nov. 19, according to a statement Thursday by Herman G. French, local secretary of the United States civil service commission.
 Since the North Kaukauna office was advanced from the third class into the second class on July 1 last, its employees must now hold their positions under civil service regulations, Mr. French explains.
 Those now serving as clerks are temporary appointments named about July 1. Permanent appointments will be made after the examination is held.
 Mr. French will go to Kaukauna on the date of the examination and will at that time organize a local civil service board there.
 Application blanks for the examination, Mr. French said, may be obtained from J. A. Lang, postmaster at Kaukauna.

Milk is the Modern Health Insurance
 Why? Because it contains every element of diet necessary to health. Our diet is generally deficient in minerals. Milk supplies the deficiency. The vital vitamins are lacking in many of our over-prepared foods. Milk is rich in vitamins. If you buy GOOD MILK, KEEP it right, and USE it right, you guard against a host of health dangers.
 Poor milk, milk used at the wrong times and in the wrong ways, may be dangerous. You should understand the use and care of this potent food.
 And in order to understand it, you should have the bulletin on milk written by Dr. Milton J. Rosenau, Professor of Preventive Medicine and Hygiene at Harvard University and formerly director of the Hygienic Laboratory of the United States Public Health Service.
 Our Washington Information Bureau will secure a free copy of this booklet for anyone who sends two cents in stamps for return postage. In filling out the coupon, print name and address or be sure to write plainly.

Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.
 In enclose herewith two cents in stamps for return postage on a free copy of the Milk Booklet.

"DEVIL DOGS" TO FIGHT BANDITRY

Chicago—Mail bandits who are accustomed to saying "hands up" had a chance to tell it to the marines Thursday.
 Fifty "devil dogs" guarded valuable mail shipments here Thursday under Colonel Louis Gullett.

This followed instructions from Postmaster General Will Hays at Washington.

She left her shop to Mrs. Hazel Hamster of New York city. Miss Hewett is leaving the shop at once and will take a vacation until Jan. 1 when she has plans to enter into her work again in a larger field. Mrs. Hamster, whose methods are English, will open her shop on Tuesday, Nov. 15.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. adv.
